

Digital Sheet Music Content for Libraries

Download and print sheet music in your own library

FreeHandMusic.com delivers digital sheet music content to a growing number of libraries. Library users download and print their own copies of sheet music from our catalogue of over 40,000 works. We are now happy to offer this exclusive service to your library.

How does it work?

For a fixed yearly fee, you receive access to download and print sheet music from the FreeHandMusic.com online catalogue of currently 40,000 editions of classical music and jazz from some of the world's most famous publishers, artists and composers. The catalogue highlights are:

1. The whole range of classical masters, from Bach, Mozart and Beethoven to Strauss, Albéniz and Debussy.
2. Famous classical and jazz artists, including Chick Corea, James Galway, Steven Isserlis, Joe Lovano, David Liebman, NHØP, and many others.
3. Thousands of original sheet music editions from Universal Edition, Josef Weinberger, Chanterelle, Pizzicato, Zen-On, Oxford University Press, Sikorski Musikverlage and many others. Nobody else offers this much original material!
4. Exclusive archive collections such as those from Göteborg Library and Uppsala University Library

You are authenticated by the IP number(s) of your library/building/institution (password login is also available where necessary). Your library users and visitors can then browse our extensive catalogue and then download and print their own copy of our high quality editions. The music is delivered instantly, with no extra costs.

FreeHandMusic.com pays the copyright holders – the publishers, artists, composers and editors – a royalty for every piece of music downloaded and printed. The digital distribution of sheet music therefore rewards the musicians for their work and reduces the damage done by the frequent photocopying of sheet music.

Why use digital sheet music?

By downloading sheet music from FreeHandMusic.com for your library patrons, you are saving all the costs involved in purchasing printed editions – no shipping, no administration, no waiting, no checking in and out, no damages, no lost editions. In addition it is not necessary for the library patron to return the music, as you can print a new copy for every interested patron.

At the end of the day you provide a better service and reduce the costs of acquiring sheet music products.
